NARRATIVE

Indian Education

1967 — 1968

The Superintendent of Public Instruction contracts annually with the United States Bureau of Indian Affairs to provide education services to Montana Indians. The authority for negotiation comes from the Federal Act of April 16, 1934, C. 147, 1, 48 Stat. 596, commonly known as the Johnson O'Malley Act, as amended June 4, 1936, C. 490, 49 Stat. 1458, Section 79-1602, R.C.M. 1947, and the State Board of Education Minutes, Page 124, Vol. 16. The administration of Johnson O'Malley Act funds is based on operation criteria outlined in Vol VI, Part II, Chapter 3, Indian Affairs Manual, and the State Plan.

The purpose of the Indian Education Program is to assist public school districts with categorical grants-in-aid to meet extraordinary needs which cannot be financed by available revenue, to bring about a better understanding of Indian education in affected communities, to encourage new programs or approaches to learning which meet the needs of the Indian, and to counsel Indian youth in respect to education and/or training beyond high school.

Even though other federal programs provide the major sources of operating funds for public school districts educating Indians, Johnson O'Malley Act funds covered claims amounting to $80,895.20 for lunches served free to eligible Indian indigent students, and $12,036.20 for pilot transportation projects involving eligible Indian students. A total of 2,239 children from seven reservations were assisted.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs conducted summer workshops under college direction to which a limited number of public school people were invited to attend. Montana sent one administrator, one elementary teacher, one guidance counselor, one kindergarten teacher, and one kindergarten teacher aide. Travel and living expenses were provided by Johnson O'Malley Act funds.

The duties of the Supervisor of Indian Education are varied. Current program activities include reviewing for the state superintendent all applications and requests for renewals for the Indian Fee-Exemption Scholarship provided for by Montana law and making recommendations concerning applicants, determining the acceptability and the amount of funding for all projects submitted for Johnson O'Malley attention, visiting schools and colleges and conducting individual conferences with Indian students, participating in college orientation programs, area career days and national conferences, meeting with college staff groups and local community groups in attempts to solve problems relating to Indian education, and functioning on various advisory committees concerned with school projects affecting the education of Indians.

Problems facing schools educating Indian children fall generally within the categories of attendance, self-image, parental direction, parental permissiveness, faculty attitude and behavior, student attitude and behavior, home-school communication, and language usage.

Montana law provides that all basic school levies be at the county level. All school districts receiving Johnson O'Malley assistance had tax levies which equaled or exceeded the average for comparable school districts in the state.

The records in the Department of Public Instruction indicate that no school districts receiving Johnson O'Malley funds are using buildings that are the property of the federal government.

The effectiveness of the Office of Indian Education could be increased by (1) providing additional professional staff for in-service-training of teachers and summer workshops for teachers, (2) providing for financial assistance to local school districts in programs designed to promote better home-school relationships, (3) developing, in cooperation with tribal groups, programs directed toward promoting better understanding between tribal members and schools, (4) providing funding and leadership for planning, and evaluating programs proceeding from strategies designed to resolve special educational programs in respect to Indians, (5) encouraging and assisting financially pilot educational programs or educational services, as well as programs of an exemplary nature aimed at resolving a defined educational problem.
